Powered by Kolibree

Powered by Kolibree is a tech provider that is partnering with professionals in the oral care world to integrate cutting-edge technology in order to reinvent oral care. Kolibree works to prevent tooth decay and educate individuals on proper oral health in fun and inventive ways.

Kolibree has made oral health fun, accessible and educational by creating the first toothbrushes with integrated AI and AR technology. A two-time CES Honoree, Kolibree ensures customer data is properly stored and handled with respect to privacy. Continuously participating in studies with world-leading professionals and academic organizations, Kolibree works to better understand and improve oral care habits globally.

Powered by Kolibree gives users the opportunity to engage with dental hygienists to better understand their own personal oral care, enjoy their oral health routines and connect with family in new and imaginative ways. Available around the world at competitive pricing, Kolibree's core technology includes embedded chipware and an entire suite of apps for both Android and Apple smartphones.
